

Mr David Brocworth

28th Aug 13

Thanks for your letter.

Yes, everything went as I predicted, with the authorities simply creating a PR image of an "independent" tribunal, containing a biased judge and a similarly handpicked doctor who was a former Ashworth quack and colleague of Ashworth's main psychiatric political parrot. Which is why I repeatedly and publicly stated that I expected nothing from any English institution or tribunal. So the truth of the situation has now been illustrated to all, which was my intention.

No, I still don't read the newspapers (since 1998), leaving the tripe for rabble consumption. But I've received much support, since publicly testifying, by mail.

Ashworth's testimony was as usual simply a mantra of psychiatric fabrication and abuse, designed to discredit/distract, drawing attention from the lack of evidence and reasoned argument. Normal smear tactics for this cesspit of parasites.

Excuse brevity.

Best wishes,
