

everything the don't get, ~~and~~ ^{letting} others steal with impunity. Beyond belief that not even one fat banker was made to pay for global plundering affecting every man who works for a living. While ~~bankers~~ ^{bankers} steal billions freely, petty criminals rot in prisons for stealing pennies. The bigger the crime, you do no time. In fact the glanny-eyed lethargy is reminiscent of the chemically embalmed in penal shitholes like this. Nice to see that people in Egypt and Libya still have some backbone and spirit even under dictators.

Yes, I had a necessary legal source of income, but our energies were concentrated upon faster sources of income. You need only observe the people who possess wealth and privilege to know that they obtained it by criminal means — from the stolen bastions to the present day. I knew that even in my schooldays! The existential exercise that brought about our downfall was therefore a side issue; apart from financial projects, we had several others running parallel, including a political. When M died she left some papers behind touching upon our other activities.

Naturally Al Nelson (Obama) was at the forefront in supporting the bankers and ignoring the will of the people. Typical Uncle Tom — which is why — faced with a Bush ape — the electorate chose a halfbreed as the best of two simian evils, as it were. Just another blowhard performing minister for the rich.

Best wishes,